PROFILE: My program of research focuses on family and dyadic experiences of chronic illness with particular emphasis on how and why members of the care dyad are similar and different in their appraisals of the illness context (including patient symptoms). I am interested in the impact this similarity/difference has on management of the illness by the couple or family dyad and ultimately how it impacts the health and well-being of both members. I have taken a unique dyadic perspective throughout my career to view the patient and their family member providing care as a team. I strongly believe this perspective sheds important light on the illness experience and will lead to more ecologically-sound and effective interventions. I have published extensively across the disciplines of nursing, gerontology, and psychology. All of my research has involved interdisciplinary teams; something I highly value and believe essential. This body of work has most recently culminated in the publication of the Theory of Dyadic Illness Management (with my colleague Dr. Lee).

EDUCATION

1995 - 1999	Ph.D. , Human Development and Family Studies, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA. Dissertation Title: "Understanding the Interface between Formal and Informal Support: The Role of the Caregiving Dyad" Chair: Steven H. Zarit, PhD.
1993 - 1995	M.A. , Psychology (with Honors), University College Dublin, Ireland. Thesis Title: "Dependency in the Urban Elderly: An Exploratory Study" Advisor: Joan Tiernan, PhD.
1990 - 1993	B.A. , Psychology (with Honors), University College Dublin, Ireland.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

2018 – Present	Associate Professor , Connell School of Nursing, Boston College.
2016 – 2018	PhD Program Director , School of Nursing, Oregon Health & Science University.
2010 – 2018	Associate Professor (primary appointment; with tenure 7/1/2016), School of Nursing, Oregon Health & Science University.
2013 – 2018	Associate Professor (secondary appointment), Department of Psychiatry, School of Medicine, Oregon Health & Science University.
2001 – 2010	Assistant Professor , School of Nursing, Oregon Health & Science University.
1999 – 2001	Senior Research Associate , School of Nursing, Oregon Health & Science University
1997 – 1999	Internship Mentor , Dept. Human Development & Family Studies, The Pennsylvania State University, PA.
1994 – 1995	Lecturer/Instructor , Dublin Institute of Adult Education, Ireland.
1993 – 1995	Senior Lab Instructor , Dept. of Psychology, University College Dublin, Ireland.

JOURNAL CLUBSFounder/Facilitator of the Family Care Dyad Journal Club (2009-2018)

(In pursuit of an innovative, out-of-the-classroom activity that could merge interests in gerontology and family research, I formed a journal club in 2009. The journal club morphs between a traditional journal club format and a venue to have in-depth discussions of dyadic theories and methods and their application to research in gerontology and family health across the lifespan)
